HISNAME

- 2. Loving hearts and sunny eyes gladden all that round me lies, yet they all could never be what my God has been to me.
- 3. He from youth has been my guide, he to hoar hairs will provide, every light and every shade on my path his Presence made.
- 4. He hath been my cloud by day, soft'ning pleasure's noontide ray; and amid the shades of night, he hath been my guiding light.
- 5. He hath been my joy in woe, cheered my heart when it was low, and, with warnings softly sad, calmed my heart when it was glad.
- 6. Change or chance could ne'er befall, but he proved mine all in all; all he asks in answer is, that I should be wholly his.
- 7. O that I may ever prove by a life of earnest love, how, by right of grace divine, I am his, and he is mine.
